

Martin Baur, Head

Martin Baur, Dr. rer. soc. oec. (Ph.D. in Economics), from Stallikon (ZH), completed his studies in economics and political science at the Universities of Zurich and Vienna in 2002 with a dissertation on the political determining factors in income distribution. Alongside his studies, he worked at the University of Vienna and for the Austrian Parliament. After returning to Switzerland, he worked for a private research and consulting office from 2002 to 2006. In 2006, he joined the Federal Tax Administration as an economist. There, he dealt with economic foundation work, led various political projects and performed various tasks for the OECD as an expert. Since April 2012, Martin Baur has been Head of the Economic Analysis and Policy Advice (EAPA) Division of the Federal Finance Administration.

He is married and lives in Zurich.

